STRIKE OF MINERS COMES TO AN END

THE 400,000 BITUMINOUS COAL MINERS ARE FLOCKING TO WORK AS RESULT OF AGREEMENT.

By the Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 11.—General operation of bituminous coal mines of the country which have been idle for nearly six weeks as a result of the strike of miners on Oct. 31 is predicted for tomorrow. Coal will be moving rapidly by the first of next week in the opinion of operators here.

Officials of the United Mine Workers of America, who last night sent telegrams to the 4000 locals of the organization, telling of the action of the miners general committee in accepting President Wilson's proposal to return to work today were confident that there will be no delay on the part of union members in resuming work.

Reports reaching here this morning told of the return as early as last night of some of the miners in nearby fields and in other instances men were reporting for work today. It is pointed out, however, that in most cases the telegrams directing the end of the strike were not received by locals until this morning and the locals in turn must notify their members before the majority will again enter the mines.

The mine operators on their part promised to bend all their energies toward the resumption of normal operation and promised that if the miners respond promptly movement of coal from the mines will become general in a few days.

All sides in the controversy were highly satisfied today with the agreement reached by the general committee of the miners in their sessions here yesterday. The miners were especially pleased with the appointment of a commission composed of one miner, one operator and a third member not affiliated with either side to investigate wages and coal prices and fix both at figures which they deem reasonable. This commission will be appointed by the president, the miners in the meantime to receive an advance of 14 percent over the scale paid in the Central competitive fields prior to the strike.

HAVOC WREAKING FLOODS IN SOUTH

THOUSANDS HOMELESS IN ALABAMA, GEORGIA AND MISSISSIPPI—CONVICTS ARE MAROONED.

By the Associated Press

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 11.—Several thousand persons were homeless today, and many were out of employment as a result of flooded rivers in Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi. Railroad schedules, particularly in lower Alabama and Mississippi were demoralized, and property lost was estimated in millions. Rivers in three states have reached their highest stage in many years as a result of the heavy rains the first part of the week, but generally were receding today.

Havittsburg, Mississippi, was the only city completely isolated by flooding water, although a score of others were partly cut off. It was estimated that 2,500 persons, chiefly negroes were homeless as a result of floods around Havittsburg and Meridian. A squadron of airplanes left the aviation fields today at Montgomery Alabama at daybreak to search for persons missing and believed marooned as a result of the flood. One Hundred and thirty persons marooned at Alabama state convict farm near Montgomery told the warden by telephone that unless assistance reached them soon the buildings probably would be swept away.

A stage of 55.5 feet was reached by all rivers at Montgomery and predictions were for a maximum rise of 58 feet, which will put the river in the union depot.

Police Capture Five Engaged In Poker Games

Five colored men from Darktown appeared before Mayor Kitchens in police court this morning and pleaded guilty to playing poker last night. Each was assessed $10.75.

The poker game was going at full blast and high pressure last night when policemen Goatcher, Matthews and Wick Adair appeared on the scene. Believing that the door was locked or barred the laws arranged to break in. Mr. Matthews being a man of considerable avoidpulis was selected to make a battering ram of himself and go thru the door. Wick Adair, holding back the screen and Matthews, acquiring much momentum, hurled himself against the panel. It developed, however, that the door was not even latched, and before the big policeman could recover his equilibrium he was standing on his head in the middle of the room. The first intimation that the poker club had of the laws' proximity was when they saw the policeman upended in the middle of the club floor. The gamblers were brought before the mayor and assessed the usual amount.

Hamilton Palace Is Being Dismantled; Furniture Is Sold

By the Associated Press

LANARKSHIRE, Scotland, Dec. 10.—Hamilton Palace, seat of the late Duke of Hamilton and Brandon, who was premier duke of Scotland, is being dismantled and even the furnishings sold at auction. Remarkable prices have been realized from the sale of the pictures and jewels. The total aggregated the equivalent of $1,277,700.

Most notable among the paintings was that of the "Beckworth Children" by Romney, which brought $260,000.

Other prices were $24,000 for the Charles II oak balustrade, $15,000 for the panelling in the old state dining room and $9,750 for the Seventeenth century oak panelling of the picture gallery.

The black marble staircase which consists of a double flight of steps and a gallery failed to find a purchaser. The palace stands in the heart of the Lanarkshire coal mining district immortalized by Scott in one of his most spirited ballads. It was built in 1822 to 1823 and one of its marvels was a portico of monolith Corinthian columns which were copied from the Temple of Vespasian at Rome. The foundations of the palace have become so affected by time that it was found necessary to dismantle the historic edifice.

BIG BASKETBALL GAME SCHEDULED FOR TONIGHT

The East Central basketballers will have their first tilt this evening at 7:30, when the Francis high come down for a long sought scrimmage. They will be led by Guy Young, last year's normal captain who will probably play with his proteges. Having no football season, the Francis youngsters started basketball early and are reported to be going at a fast clip. Last season they had one of the best teams in the state.

However, the locals should win with a good margin. They have been practicing daily since the close of the football season and have shown spurts of basketball at times. Naturally their team work is a little off occasionally and they need a great deal of work at the basket. The following men will probably get into action this evening: Forwards, C. Roach, Wolfe, Chism, H. Roach; Center, Kidd, Sherman, Toliver; Guards, Ingram, Heard, Newcomb, Brents. Vernon, another candidate has not recovered from injuries received in the football game at Durant.

The prospects for a good team are the best in years and a good schedule is in prospect for the teachers. The best teams obtainable will be seen in action here including Kendall College, Burleson and Austin Colleges of Texas, and Central and Northwestern normals.

WHY ROOSEVELT WANTED A CHANGE

BIOGRAPHER TELLS WHY THE COLONEL WANTED THE "IN GOD WE TRUST" TAKEN FROM COINS.

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—A new and interesting explanation of Col. Roosevelt's objection to the use of the phrase "In God We Trust" on United States coins, is afforded in an article in the December Scribner's by Joseph Bucklin Bishop, the former President's biographer. A letter written by Mr. Roosevelt on Nov. 11, 1907, to a clergyman who had differed with him about placing the motto on the coins read:

"When the question of the new coinage came up we looked into the law and found there was no warrant therein for putting 'In God We Trust' on the coins. As the custom, altho without legal warrant, had grown up, however, I might have felt at liberty to keep the inscription had I approved of it on the coinage. But as I did not approve of it, I did not direct that it should again be put on. Of course the matter of the law is absolutely in the hands of congress, and any direction of congress in the matter will be immediately obeyed. At present, as I have said, there is no warrant in law for the inscription.

"My own feeling in the matter is due to my very firm conviction that to put such a motto on coins, or to use it in any kindred manner, not only does no good but does positive harm, and is in effect irreverence which comes dangerously close to sacrilege.

"A beautiful and solemn sentence such as the one in question should be treated and uttered only with that fine reverence which necessarily implies a certain exaltation of spirit. Any use which tends to cheapen it, and above all, any use which tends to secure its being treated in a spirit of levity, is from every standpoint profoundly to be regretted.

"It is a motto which it is indeed well to have inscribed on our great national monuments, in our temples of justice, in our legislative halls, and in buildings such as those at West Point and Annapolis—in short, wherever it will tend to arouse and inspire a lofty emotion in those who see it. But it seems to me eminently wise to cheapen such a motto by use on coins, just as it would be to cheapen it by use on postage stamps or in advertisements.

Among the 150,000 letters written by Colonel Roosevelt during his public career, Mr. Bishop said he found a number from Rudyard Kipling, written in that famous author's characteristic way, that is, in the simplest of language.

In a letter written in 1908 the Colonel said: "Great Heart is my favorite character in allegory, just as Pilgrim's Progress is to my mind one of the greatest books that has ever written, and I think that Abraham Lincoln is the ideal 'Great Heart' of public life." He returned to this idea about Lincoln from time to time, a fact which explains the origin of Kipling's memorial poem entitled "Great Heart," written when the Colonel died.

Colonel Roosevelt's admiration for the Great Emancipator was also shown in a letter which he wrote on March 9, 1905, a few days after his inauguration, to Sir George Trevelyan, the English historian and nephew of Macaulay, in which the Colonel said:

"It has been profoundly pleasant to me to find that my supporters are to be found among the overwhelming majority whom Abraham Lincoln called the 'plain people.' As I suppose you know, Abraham Lincoln is my hero. He was a man of the people who always felt with and for the people, but who had not the slightest touch of the demagogue in him."

ALASKA MUST LIE IN PURE IDLENESS

SO SAYS ITS GOVERNOR IN ANNUAL REPORT IN WHICH PLEA IS MADE FOR LIBERAL POLICY.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Declaring that "for lack of intelligent government assistance the truly great resources of Alaska must perforce lie in idleness," Governor Thomas Riggs, Jr., in his annual report today, voiced a plea for the adoption by the government of a more liberal Alaskan policy. The report said lawlessness, "particularly that fomented by pro-Germans, I. W. W. and Bolshevik elements," was becoming a menace.

"Appropriations are placed at such a low figure as to preclude effectiveness; rich mining regions are made unavailable for lack of transportation facilities; fisheries are threatened with exhaustion for lack of protection; natives, in time of epidemics are allowed to die of disease and starvation and, as a result of laws and regulations, at every turn appears the huge Teutonic sign 'Verboten.'" the governor said.

"The people of Alaska," he added, "hold out their hands to Washington, not as supplicants or bounty, but in petition to be allowed to develop as were the Western territory, now the great western states."

Referring to the menace of increasing radicalism in Alaska, the report said:

"Indications point to a continued immigration as the result of army demoralization and the closing of war-time industries. Alaska is receiving the extremes of the social scales. On the one hand the fine young men of the type who developed the great Western states are becoming evident in increasing numbers and, on the other hand, the I. W. W., alien enemy and Bolshevik, knowing the unprotected condition of the territory, are arriving in force and making their presence known. The great numbers of foreigners in Alaska who can hardly speak the English language fall easy victims to the insidious propaganda of the seditious agitator. It does not seem right that the decent, honest law abiding majority should not receive full protection at all times."

The governor's report deplored the action of congress in failing to appropriate money for the relief of the native population during the recent severe outbreak of influenza in the far north. There were more than 1,500 deaths chiefly among the natives. Governor Riggs reported and conditions in the interior of the country were beyond description. The entire adult population of many villages was wiped out, the report stated, and hundreds of children starved or succumbed to cold.

Despite this serious situation, said Governor Riggs, "a bill introduced in the senate appropriating $100,000 for Alaskan relief passed that body but failed in the House" although at the same time Congress was considering appropriations of $100,000,000 for the relief of the destitute in Europe and $1,000,000 for fighting influenza in the United States.

Great credit was given the American navy and the Red Cross for voluntary assistance during the epidemic. The report incorporated the following recommendations:

Reimbursement of the territory for money spent for the relief of natives.

Consolidation of all governmental authority possible in the Department of the Interior.

Removal of restrictions on export of birch timber from public lands.

Establishment of a uniform constabulary.

Assignment of naval or coast-guard ships to continuous duty in Alaskan waters.

Transfer of jurisdiction over fisheries to the territory.

Assistance to farmers by loan of money and cattle.

Restoration of national forests to the public domain.

Appropriation for Mount McKinley National Park.

Increased telegraph service.

Increased appropriation for work among natives.

Increased appropriations for the protection of game and the suppression of the liquor traffic.

Increased appropriation for the establishment of aids to navigation.

Increased appropriations for coast surveys.

Renewal of mail contract system for the delivery of mail.

PACIFIC COAST FOR LARGE NAVAL BASE

SPECIAL BOARD OF INSPECTION OF NAVAL BASES RECOMMENDS GREAT OPERATIONS ON COAST.

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Development of Pacific coast naval shore establishment during the next five years at a cost of $158,000,000 is recommended in the report of the special board headed by Rear Admiral J. S. McKean sent last year to check up on its previous program. Deep water fleet bases at Bremerton, Wash., at a cost of $44,000,000, and at San Francisco, at a cost of $51,000,000 are the chief items proposed, the San Francisco project as previously outlined by the Helm board having been increased by proposed destroyer and submarine basins.

The report urged establishment within three years of the base at San Francisco, saying that with the Bremerton base it would provide two deep-water stations for the capital ships, the minimum required for efficient operation of the Pacific fleet. In addition, expansion of facilities at San Diego to provide a complete operating base for southern California was recommended to include fleet supply facilities and a repair base for the smaller ships. Advantages of this point as a base for maneuvers and target practice were emphasized.

The board agreed with the Helm Commission (1917) that insufficient depth of water rendered the Mare Island yard unavailable for development as a base in San Francisco harbor and favored Alameda site over that at Hunters Point although withholding final decision pending further sub-surface exploration.

The Bremerton navy yard, the board held, should be developed for the exclusive use of big craft, with a repair base for the Puget Sound submarine flotilla at the Keyport torpedo station and an operating base for destroyers, submarines and aircraft at Port Angeles, Wash., near Ediz Hook. The Bremerton base developments, the board said, also should be completed within three years, as of vital importance to the fleet. It should include additional slips and piers, two large and two small dry-docks and expanded storage facilities.

"The urgency cannot be exaggerated when the lack of facilities for large ships at San Francisco and Hawaii is realized," the report said.

The strategic position of the Hawaiian Islands, the board said, made absolutely imperative the development of the Pearl Harbor station into a first-class base adequate to "take care of the whole fleet in any movement, offensive or defensive, across the Pacific." Developments recommended at an estimated cost of $27,000,000 included an additional dry-dock, increased storage space, expansion of repair and maintenance equipment, and a complete submarine base.

The board recommended establishment of a submarine base at San Pedro, Cal., and a base for submarines, destroyers and aircraft at Astoria, Oregon, on the Columbia River. The latter would require dredging the channel and serve also as an anchorage for big ships.

Advantages of San Diego as an aviation training and operating base were emphasized and exclusive naval use of the training station now operated jointly with the army was urged.

All recommendations of the board for the deepening of waterways at the various stations were based on ships of 40 feet draft and 1000 feet in length.

In addition to Admiral McKean, acting chief of naval operations at the time the inspection was made, the board was composed of Rear Admiral C. W. Parks, chief of the bureau of yards and docks, and Commander J. C. Hilton, of the bureau of supplies and accounts. Discussing the "immense sum, considering the financial conditions of our country" it recommended for expenditure, the board said it had included "no items that are NOT necessary to the efficient and economical maintenance and operation of the fleet, that the providing of these necessary facilities can be done in time of peace at much less cost than they can be improvised and rushed under war conditions" and pointed to the fact that more than $88,000,000 had been expended during the war to expand Atlantic Coast facilities already existing. It called attention, also to the fact that there were thirteen bases of various sorts on the Atlantic, six more than the total recommended herein for the Pacific.

The report says recommendations for increased facilities were already coming from the Pacific Fleet, despite the fact that it was so recently established, making it clear that the fleet officers realized the necessity for the improvements proposed.

BETTER PAY FOR TEACHERS URGED

STATE SUPERINTENDENT WILSON ALSO FAVORS LONGER TERMS FOR THE RURAL SCHOOLS.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 10.—Immediate action of a definite nature should be made to lengthening the term of the rural school and to paying rural school teachers better salaries, in the opinion of R. H. Wilson, state superintendent, who has received reports from county superintendents concerning conditions of these schools. There are 331,356 pupils attending rural schools in the state, with 9,256 teachers in these schools. Seven and one-half months is the average length of the school term, with two months the minimum and nine months maximum. The minimum salary for the rural school teacher is $45 a month. The highest is $116 a month for holders of first grade certificates. The compensation graduates downward from this figure.

Mr. Wilson declares that teachers of these schools should receive salaries "which they know will be sufficient to pay their board and room rent and most other necessary expenses. To develop a definite program to this end and to see it through is necessary for the good of the schools."

Movement to remedy this condition was that started recently in meetings of the district associations of teachers for a state wide levy independent of other taxes for the schools. It will require an amendment to the state constitution. Delegates were selected at the meetings to assemble here about the first of the year to arrange such an amendment. It probably will be submitted to the people for expression in the campaign of next summer.

Mr. Wilson is now serving his third term as state superintendent, and he has consistently fought for the betterment of the rural schools. The city and town schools have fared very well. In some of the isolated districts of the state help is needed.

NO BOLSHEVISM SAYS VANDERLIP

PRESIDENT OF NATIONAL CITY BANK OF NEW YORK REVIEWS UNREST AND SAYS NO BOLSHEVISM.

WHO IS VANDERLIP?
* Frank A. Vanderlip, Chicago and New York.
* Began work life in machine shop, at lathe.
* Financial writer for newspaper in Chicago.
* Secretary to U. S. Secretary of Treasury.
* Assistant U. S. Secretary of Treasury.
* President National City Bank of New York.
* Chairman board of directors American International corporation.
* Director, steel railroad, public utility, shipping, manufacturing corporations.

(By H. P. BURTON.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Reviewing the full circle of modern American life, a circle he himself has happened to travel, Frank A. Vanderlip drew today the lessons he has learned from it, in order to point out what he believes to be the cause of the great industrial unrest seething and surging here, and in the rest of the civilized world, and how this may be cured.

"There is no use dismissing the unrest in the United States by calling it Bolshevism," he began, "because that is too loose a term as ordinarily applied here. What is Bolshevism? Bolshevism is desperation. It is what comes when people are cold and hungry and without clothes. It is not present in the United States, because we have none of the conditions here that breed it. Some Unrest Honest.

"Our special unrest comes from other reasons, and it is not part of far-seeing wisdom to simply scream Bolshevism at it and then not try to understand it. That part of our unrest which is honest and springs from real causes should be investigated, and the cause of it removed. Only such procedure ought to get the sanction of matured minds.

"At present the industrial situation in the United States is full of promise; and it is full of danger. On one hand, there are no economic obstacles to a long continued full employment of labor at high wages; on the other hand, there is widespread unrest in our industrial world."

Wages Not Cause.
"Do you analyze this great unrest as a dissatisfaction arising mainly from the question of wages paid?" I asked.

"I am quite positive, indeed, that it is not," he declared. "I am not an academic theorizer," said Vanderlip, "and in the aspirations of labor, it is probably true that wages stand at the head of the list. Certainly, after wages, with the better part of our workmen, comes the question of security of position. And then comes the desire that men have to be something more in life than mere inanimate cogs, just part of the great impersonal industrial machine."

"With the widespread specialization of industry, with the multiplication of labor-saving machines, which ask nothing in the way of special skill from the operator, the difficulty of giving the workers any real interest in their job, I realize, is very great. Yet this is a problem that we can build successfully a civilization based on the frustration of human characteristics."

See Strides of Progress.
"I can propose no universal panacea, and I don't believe any fixed formula can be applied to all industries. I am sure, however, that in some industries there are already strides of progress being made in this direction, mainly brought about by the formation of shop committees that are made up of representatives chosen by the workmen."

"These meet constantly with representatives of the management, and under such conditions, we get an understanding of problems. Thus the shop representatives very soon come to know some of the difficulties of the shop management and they frequently contribute largely to the solving of these difficulties."

Urges Friendly Conferences.
"Just as important is the better understanding gained by the management of the employees' point of view, an understanding crystallized in a friendly conference rather than the misunderstanding that takes shape in the heat of passion which is generated in an industrial strike. "Mass production is, of course, a practically new thing and has brought about a new problem. We are not adjusted to it yet, and we don't even fully understand the nature of the human problem it has raised."

"There is no use thrusting out blindly at it or trying to exercise it by worn-out formulas. We must intelligently study the reaction of the human being to his new mechanized environment and see what in it he resents so strongly.

Machinery to Blame.
"I am not certain that this must come as that mass production has brought about the need of it. No one who has stood, as I have stood, for 12 hours a day before a lathe bathed in a stream of flowing oil, making over and over again one certain gesture, can question the necessity for adjustment.

"For herein lies the fundamental cause for our unrest in America today—suppression of the suppression of the most valuable attributes in man, his creative instinct, a thing that he will not allow to be lost even in a world so largely mechanized as ours by the demands for mass production.

"But the mass production, difficult as it makes our present social problem, is a thing that we can not dispense with, unless we are willing to curtail our wants.

Revolution vs. Evolution.
"Do you think we can work out the problem?"
"In this matter," Vanderlip said, "we are in a neck-to-neck race between revolution and evolution, and the great question among the sophisticated today is which is going to win out. Can we evolve fast enough to stave off a revolution which sociologists say is due when people will tolerate no longer a general suppression of their creative impulses? I believe personally there are compensations—good pay, shorter hours and a larger voice in labor's immediate surroundings—that will maintain the self-respect of a man and see to it that he is not finally swallowed as part of the industrial mechanism, sweated as indifferently as the machines are sweated."

SHRINER OUTING AT PAWNEE FOR 19TH CALLED OFF

Because of the coal shortage, the proposed ceremonial of the Shriners at Pawnee Bill's ranch near Pawnee on December 19 has been called off, it was announced by Grand Potentate N. F. Irish.

The trip was planned by Akdar Temple of Tulsa, which was to put on a big ceremonial for many candidates for Shrinedom. Bedouin Temple accepted the invitation last week and preparations were being made for the trip, which, it was expected, would have been attended by hundreds of Shriners from all over Oklahoma.

Akdar Temple will hold a ceremonial December 19, but the scene will be Tulsa and not Pawnee Bill's ranch. W. Freeland Kendrick, imperial potentate, was to have attended the ceremonies, but it is not known whether or not he will come to Tulsa.

A buffalo feed, the big special train, the ceremonial and other stunts will be among the things that the Bedouin Temple Shriners will not have a chance to enjoy because of the coal strike.

What You Will in Suits

"What are they wearing?" in suits has ceased to be as interesting as "What are they showing now?" It has come to pass that women demand a variety of styles and a chance to indulge individual taste, and manufacturers have fostered these demands by replenishing the retailers' stocks with new developments of the season's modes. The story for winter is about to close and it reveals that we may wear suits having a straight-line silhouette or those with fitted waists, with equal propriety, that redingote styles have grown in popularity and that velvet has made long strides since the beginning of the season. It is in great demand for mid-winter. Except for sport suits the manufacturers will have little more to offer this season, for they are already engrossed with suits for spring and promise more radical departures from the styles of today than for many past seasons.

Two suits, distinctly different in type, but each showing an interpretation of the long coat styles, are shown above. The stately model at the left is made of duvetyne and reflects the influence of the redingote besides taking cognizance of the widened hip idea. It is trimmed with rat-tail braid and a few buttons and two very narrow tucks in the coat, above the hem, invite attention to the accuracy of the tailor's art. A further testimony is offered by a front panel that is cut in one with the belt and widens above the waistline, making a smart diagonal closing at the left side. A muffer collar of seal skin bears out the elegance of this design and probably adds more than a pretty penny to the price of the suit.

Silvertone is to be credited with much of the fine style which gives assurance to the wearer of the suit at the right. This fuzzy material with a silver sheen will delight the tourist and as shown here is a model that could not be improved upon for traveling.

COMMERCE REPORT SHOWS BIG GAINS

NEW HIGH MARKS WERE ESTABLISHED IN BOTH IMPORTS AND EXPORTS FOR THE PAST YEAR.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—America's trade balance for the fiscal year ended last June 30 was $3,978,134,947, "a figure never approached in the commerce of any nation in the history of the world," said the annual report today of the Secretary of Commerce. New high marks were established in both exports and imports, exports totaling $7,074,011,529 and imports $3,095,876,582. Exports to Europe aggregated $4,634,816,841; to North America $1,291,932,342; to Asia $803,924,548 and to South America $400,901,601.

Despite war losses, the world's merchant tonnage is larger now than at any other time in history, the report said, the total tonnage being 50,919,000 gross compared with 49,089,000 in 1914. The present average efficiency of the world's merchant tonnage, however, is below that of 1914 "because of inherent reasons in construction and for extraneous reasons such as port congestions, labor troubles and management."

Net gain in steam tonnage for the world was placed at 2,500,000 gross tons, while that of the United States was 7,600,000 gross tons. Merchant tonnage now under construction is more than double the pre-war output. Steel steam tonnage for the United States at the close of the past fiscal year was over 6,000,000 gross tons, four times greater than 1914 and is increasing at the rate of 350,000 tons monthly.

"The annual output of our shipyards," the report said, "exceeds the greatest annual output of the world's shipyards before 1914. Steel shipbuilding plants have been extended or established with new machinery, methods, housing, and transit accommodations equal, and in some respects superior to those abroad. American tonnage clearing in overseas trade in the fiscal year 1919 was six times greater than in 1914."

The total gross tonnage of ships flying the American flag on June 30, 1919, was 12,907,300 of which 6,669,726 tons were assigned to foreign trade, 2,685,680 to the Great Lakes area and 3,601,894 to sea and river traffic.

The need for a unified commercial organization to help promote the nation's commerce was urged in the report. It was pointed out that while under the law it was the duty of the Department of Commerce to "foster, promote and develop the foreign and domestic commerce" of the country, half a dozen government agencies perform functions of vital necessity to this commerce. The department, it was argued, should have representatives in these agencies so that the whole war could be co-ordinated.

The secretary also said that lack of funds necessary to retain competent men was handicapping the Department in promoting foreign trade. Additional appropriations were asked for various bureaus. Declaring that the commercial attaché service had amply proved its value, the report said the kind of men who were useful for this work could obtain larger salaries in the employ of companies engaged in the export business.

Authentic information about foreign markets is being hindered by resignations in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, according to the report, which stated that members of this subsidiary after being schooled by the government invariably left to take positions with private companies where larger salaries were paid.

"The time has come," said the report "when sufficient means should be provided so that the foreign trade service of our government may be placed on some permanent self supporting basis, so that accumulated experience may be retained. The international trade situation of today is a matter of vital importance to the prosperity of this country and it is essential that the most authentic information about foreign markets be obtained and distributed."

Fifty percent of the technical staff of the Bureau of Standards, one of the most important bureaus of the department, has been lost during the past two years because of the small salaries paid government employees, the report declared. This applies to all grades of trained scientific and technical men, but is especially true of the leaders in specific lines. This bureau, it was said, was of great importance to industry as had been demonstrated during the war.

Urgent needs of the department for the coming year as outlined in the report included additional vessels for the Lighthouse service and funds to continue work of this service; a government-owned building to house all the services of the department and an additional Assistant Secretary to assist in the administration and supervision of the increased work of the department. Additional appropriations for the ensuing year of $6,265,113 were asked, the report pointing out that the cost of the Fourteenth Decennial Census alone would amount to $6,215,000.

A WORLD JOY RIDING

Some years ago Arthur Brisbane flowered into fame by publishing a striking editorial on the subject of "Dead Hands." In graphic fashion he described the bony fingers of the past reaching out of the dead centuries and controlling the action of men. Precedent, he declared, was the power that held a world in thrall and imposed upon the present ideals that were senescent in Caesar's day.

But the clutch of dead hands has finally been broken. Precedent no longer imposes its decrees on the nations, and a great gulf now lies between us and the mildewed past. The world faces the future. The new and untrod control the world of thought, and a nerve cracked race burying its past in the grave of the past accepts with complacency anything and everything that promises a thrill or that has the appeal of novelty.

Parliaments are sending constitutions to the scrap heap and legislating on subjects that have no place in any forum or chancellery. The most sacred relations of life are provided with a legislative rule-of-thumb by legislators who have consigned the fundamentals of government to the limbo of things forgotten.

Courts have torn the kerchief from the eyes of the blinded goddess and have converted the temple of justice into a refuge of criminals. By strewing the pathway of legal process with a maze of technicality they have removed all fear from the heart of the prisoner at the bar.

Schools are sending literary finish to the dusty cell in which repose the ashes of the classics and are making mechanics and artisans where in the world's golden age was fashioned the character that glorified education.

Philosophy has become the handmaiden of sedition, while ethical codes are written by those who seek to show a world how criminal is the ancient mandate: "Thou shalt not steal." To become a great moral teacher one must advocate the gratification of every animal propensity and is famous in proportion to his indecency.

The Psalms of David are disappearing from the courts of Zion. Hymns of worship are sung in ragtime, and too often the pulpit seeks popularity by placing itself on the artistic level of the opera. "An humble and a contrite heart" itself becomes spectacular when found in an atmosphere impregnated with the hoop-la of the vaudeville. Men who never saw a catechism are breaking the bread of life to a spiritually hungered world.

"Love's old sweet song" is no longer considered effective unless rendered to an accompaniment of tom-toms. Modesty wears cap and bells, while honesty takes post-graduate work in "how not to get caught." Neighbors exchange a passing word through the effluvia cast off by high-powered cars, and the Sabbath is the accepted time to discharge all the deviltries accumulated in the human system.

The past has gone to the discard. The dead fingers no longer bother a delirious world, and the wisdom of yesterday's ten thousand years is lost on a people fully determined to do anything once. And it is a sad day for civilization when the ideals and traditions of the past are blotted from human memory.

The Evening News is tickled to death to know that it never was defended in a handbill that attacked Almighty God and the United States government and that eulogized bolshevism and justified anarchy. Yes, we are tickled, comrade—tickled to death.

But Job never had to read a book with deckled edges and un-cut pages. Else he never would have established himself as a paragon of patience. Very crude after all were the tests applied to the old patriarch.

An exchange says that God put the coal in the bowels of the earth. At any rate it begins to look as if the devil himself can't get it out.

Whenever you see a man spit upon the sidewalk and say "I am an American citizen," you had just as well prepare for the worst.

Don't expect too much of congress right away. It's got to take a thirty-day recess for the holidays.

Now they say that Coolidge of Massachusetts is red-headed. We suspected it.

MORRIS RATH GAVE CRITICS THE LAUGH

Morris Rath.

Back in the middle of last baseball season when the fans were beginning to realize that the Cincinnati Reds were headed pennantward, baseball critics began picking weak links in the team. Said some of them: "If the Reds could get Buck Herzog to play short and fill the weak spot there the Reds would have a chance. The Reds didn't get Buck, but Morris Rath held up his end at short in the home stretch and world's series in a way that fooled the wise ones."

CHARITY AT HOME IS THE SLOGAN

RED CROSS AND UNITED CHARITIES ARE COMBINED AND APPEAL TO THE PEOPLE TO HELP.

At the meeting of the Lions' Club on Tuesday a committee was appointed to co-operate with the Red Cross and United Charities in an appeal to the people of Ada for clothing for the poor of the city. At a conference yesterday at Red Cross headquarters it was decided to make this appeal through the columns of The Ada Evening News.

The committee desires first to commend the union of the Red Cross and what was known as The United Charities, as it feels that it is far better for the charity work of the city to be done through one channel. The reasons for this are apparent.

Perhaps few people realize the extent of suffering right here at our door in Ada. Here are a few concrete examples:

Case 1.—Family of three boys, ages 6, 10 and 12. Father blind. Begs over country. Mother not strong.

Case 2.—Family of two children a grown girl and a boy ten or eleven years of age. Mother a widow.

Case 3.—Family of three children, all boys. Ages 6, 9, 12. Father has tuberculosis.

Case 4.—Family of three children, ages two years, one year, and one month. Father mentally incapacitated.

Case 5.—Family of four children ranging in age from eight years down to eleven months. Deserted by father.

Case 6.—Family of one, a girl seven years of age. Mother a widow. Mother takes care of her own mother who is seventy years of age.

Case 7.—Family of five children. Mother a widow.

Case 8.—Family of four children. Mother a widow. Works at one of the hotels. Receives ten dollars a week.

These are sufficient to convey to our minds that there is suffering in

Ada. This article is especially designed to appeal for clothing. Many of these families have insufficient clothing to keep them warm, and the high price of clothing makes it impossible for them to buy. The appeal is therefore made to the Ada public to donate clothing they can spare that others may not suffer from the cold winds of winter.

A few points about this clothing:

1. Clothing that can not be used should not be donated. It is time lost to those who have to handle it. Wearable clothing and clothing that can be made over is desired.
2. It should be clean. Clean people must handle it before it goes out to the needy homes. Besides dirty clothing is likely to carry disease germs.
3. This clothing should be taken to the headquarters of the Red Cross, 100 1-2 W. Main. It should not be donated directly to needy families. Indiscriminate charity is often more hurtful than helpful. One family may receive more than it needs while another may get nothing. A record of needy families is to be kept at Red Cross headquarters. In this way the Red Cross will act as a clearing house, and the distribution will be directed by those in charge—at the present time by Mrs. Snead and Rev. Damron.
4. When necessary calls will be made for women to help prepare this clothing before it is distributed to those in need. The committee is sure there will be a hearty response to such calls.
5. Wearable clothing is not all that is necessary. Bedding is as necessary as clothing to wear.
6. If any one desiring to donate clothing is unable to see that it gets to headquarters, please phone to the Red Cross, 816, or to Rev. Damron, 616. Provision will be made for securing the clothing.
7. This clothing will be sorted out at headquarters and kept in good order.
8. It is hoped that donations will be made at once to relieve immediate suffering.
9. This call is not meant merely for the present. People are given the opportunity of donating any time in the year. If this is done it will make special calls unnecessary.

Donations of household furnishings are also acceptable. Sometimes poor people have so little of these things that they can not make proper use of food. One person who was in one home saw the children eating their sweet potatoes on their hands, and she was impressed with the idea that they did not have plates. Chairs, rugs, dressers, dishes, and cooking utensils, can often be placed where they will do great good. There is not room for all this at the Red Cross headquarters, but a room can no doubt be found some where to place such things. We understand that the Masonic Lodge has offered a room for clothing. The committee found a fine place for the clothing immediately adjoining the Red Cross, and it may be that the place offered by the Masons could be used for household furnishings. This room is located up stairs over the Cash Grocery on South Broadway.

Coal Miners in the Pittsburg, Kansas, Field Not Working

By the Associated Press

PITTSBURG, Kans., Dec. 11.—Union coal miners did not return to work this morning and it is not known what steps will be taken by officials of the union to have them return to work under the order sent out from Indianapolis last night. The fact that the Kansas mines now are in the hands of receivers makes the Kansas situation entirely different from other districts, it was pointed out. Thomas Cunningham, district traveling auditor, in a statement Tuesday night declared that the union miners would not return to work until the troops were removed from this field. Whether this view will be supported by the district president or by the national organization is not known.

Carol Singing Is Dying Out

THE custom of carol singing out of doors at Christmas time seems to be dying out. This is a great pity, for carols are a branch of folk music, the unconscious art of the peasant mind, a heritage of inestimable worth.

In many English villages there are carols peculiar to themselves, to be jealously guarded and retained for their use.

The Christmas carol dates from the birth of Christianity itself, the angels having sung their carols at the birth of Jesus Christ.

Among the early Christians carols were sacred hymns representing Christ's nativity. Now the name is given to a variety of popular metrical compositions from the simple record of the birth of our Lord to rude was-sail songs and rhymes of holiday revelry.

Probably no Christmas would seem complete without the well-known and popular hymn, "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing."

The word carol, which originally meant a dance, is thought to have come into our language either from the Norman French carole or from the Celtic carol.

In 1822 Davies Gilbert published "some ancient Christmas carols, with the tunes to which they were formerly sung in the west of England." In his preface he declared himself to be desirous "of preserving them in their actual forms, as specimens of times now passing away, and of religious feelings now superseded by others of a different caste."

Of late years some of the churches—chiefly in the larger cities—have held "Christmas carol services" during the Christmas season. This is an excellent movement, and might profitably be taken up by churches all over the country. Certainly if the churches can restore this old custom it will add to the enjoyment of the season.

France is exceptionally rich in carols, which are often drinking songs as in many European countries. We find many French carols translated into English, no doubt as a result of the intercourse which existed between dwellers on either side of the channel. In the days when English youths often pursued their studies in France.

There is a great deal of discussion as to which is the most popular carol. While it is impossible to name the favorite, there can be little doubt of the universal appeal of "God rest ye, merry gentlemen," whose plaintive melody has touched a chord in the popular mind. Among modern compositions may be mentioned, "The Shepherds Left Their Sheep," by Alfred Hollins. Mr. Hollins is blind, but this affliction has not prevented him from becoming one of the finest organists and composers in Britain.

Washington Irving in his famous "Sketch Book" introduces us to most of the old English customs which have from time immemorial, attended the Christmas festival. Of his first night at Bracebridge Hall he says:

"I had scarcely got into bed when a strain of music seemed to break forth in the air just below the window. I listened, and found it proceeded from a band, which I concluded to be the waits from some neighboring village. They went around the house playing under the windows. I drew aside the curtains, to hear them more distinctly. The moonbeams fell through the upper part of the casement, partially lighting up the antiquated apartment. The sounds, as they receded, became more soft and aerial, and seemed to accord with the quiet and the moonlight. I listened and listened—there became tender and remote, and, as they gradually died away, my head sank upon the pillow and I fell asleep."

In Pasquell's "Jests," a book published in 1604, an amusing story is told of a knight who gave a Christmas feast at which he entertained his friends and the tenants.

The host ordered no man at the table to drink a drop "till he that was master of his wife should sing a carol." A pause ensued and then one poor male, more daring than the others, timidly lifted his lonely voice.

The knight then turned to the ladies, who sat at a table apart, and "bade her who was master over her husband," sing a carol. The legend says that forthwith "the women fell all to singing, that there was never heard such a catter-walling piece of musick."

Some Remarkable Shooting.
A play was being given by a group of soldiers, the hero of which was to shoot blank cartridges at a row of bottles standing on a shelf, while another soldier, well concealed, was to break each bottle in turn with the point of his bayonet, thus pretending that the hero was shooting the bottles. Through some misunderstanding the hero started shooting at the wrong end of the row, while at the other end the bottles were being broken.

In the larger cities and in some of the smaller cities and towns, women have put very practical ideas into operation along lines that are helpful to the poorer members of the community, without making them objects of charity. We learned during the war, when drives were made for clothing for the Belgians and French of the devastated regions, that nearly everyone had clothing that could be spared. It is almost a crime to keep garments that are not worn or needed, stored away when they might be of use to others who really need them. Therefore influential women in the larger communities have organized yearly sales—usually called "rummage sales," and they contribute to these events all kinds of clothing—shoes, hats, gloves, hose, underwear, as well as all other garments. The contributions include clothing for men, women and children. The more prosperous usually donate outright what they can spare. Others ask that a selling price be put upon their articles and a certain per cent of it be returned to them.

But clothing is not all that appears at these sales; bed coverings, furniture, bric-a-brac, and all sorts of household belongings find a place at the sale. If there is no regular woman's exchange, preserves and canned fruits and vegetables are sure of finding purchasers. In fact, about everything appears that is useful or ornamental in the home.

It takes a few enterprising and capable women to put over a rummage sale or a contribution sale or bazaar—the name to be selected according to circumstances. They must get the contributions, find a place to assemble and display them and provide salespeople. When the goods are arranged, they are to be marked in plain figures. Usually a woman's club or similar organization carries these sales through, a small per cent on the income, above expenses, going into the treasury. It is best to have only a few managers—say a committee of three—who can give time to the affair and those who have had business experience, or are known to have executive ability, should be chosen. There are possibilities for those who sell and those who buy in a sale of this kind. The most important thing to remember is that clothing and house furnishings are to be sold very cheaply. Foodstuffs will bring the market price.

Another fine practice was inaugurated during the war, and that was the conversion of old, battered silver and jewelry into bullion.

Nearly every one possesses some old pieces that are never used and are kept, simply because they are of precious metal or have some little sentimental value. Probably a good many dollars in many communities are wrapped up in useless trinkets. These might better be donated by their owners to the first deserving cause that comes along. In a good sized city the donors will be able to raise a respectable sum on contributions they will never miss.

CHILDREN'S PAGEANT REPLACES CHURCH SERVICE

The Interpreter Exhorting Lex Workers

Pageantry staged in church channels in place of the Sunday morning service! This was the innovation arranged for presentation from coast-to-coast in every Episcopal church to emphasize with dramatic vividness the Church's Nation-Wide Campaign now in progress. The practice of presenting a pageant or mystery play in the channel of the church dates back to the thirteenth century, when this vehicle was used to put before the people a great truth or lesson in striking, dramatic manner.

The Rev. George Long of Warsaw, Ill., member of the national committee of the Nation-Wide Campaign, conceived the idea of using pageantry to put before the whole church, and especially the young members, the lesson of the big drive to extend all the church's activities, missions, religious education and social service. He had had wide experience in arranging and producing pageants, and in collaboration with Phillips E. Osgood arranged "The Builders of the City of God" as the children's contribution to the Church's Nation-Wide Campaign. The stately settings of the church furnished admirable backgrounds for presenting in dramatic form this version of the awakened Church going forth to meet her tasks. The principal character, The Interpreter, awakens the various types of indifferent, little-visioned half-selves or complacent church members to meet the challenge of the Spirit of the Nation-Wide Campaign, and to complete the building of the city.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

ANOTHER CAT SHOW.

"I must tell you about another cat show which I went to see," said Daddy. "I heard about it and wanted to be able to tell you two children about the cats I saw."

"That's nice," said Nancy, "and maybe lots and lots of our friends will hear about it, too. They may have pussy cats of their own and they will like to hear of the fine ones you saw."

"How do you know they were fine ones?" asked Daddy.

"They usually are at a cat show," said Nick, "aren't they, Daddy?"

"You're right," said Daddy, "and these were no exception to the rule. That is, each cat at the show was fine, if not finer, than any other cats at any other cat shows I have ever seen."

"They were beautiful, these cats, and they were very proud of themselves. There were cats whose grandfathers and great-grandfathers and grandmothers and great-grandmothers had been famed for their beauty and their fine families."

"There were cats from Siam and cats from Australia, and there were good cats from this side of the world, too."

"There were more cats at this show than I have almost ever seen at any other show before, and there were lovely little fuzzy kittens too."

"All those who won prizes at this show had their prizes count toward great prizes they would win at other shows. In fact their counts were being added up for them because they were all trying to work for great championships."

"The cats from Siam had lived in a palace and there were only a few of this rare kind at the show. They had been white when they were born, but when they were six weeks old their toes and their ears and their little noses and their tails became brown. Then when they were six months old their coats had become creamy in color and their trimmings as to the nose and ears and so forth were of a lovely shade of blue."

"They had lovely blue eyes which, as you know, is very rare, very rare indeed, in cats."

"Really," these cats were saying to each other, "the chameleon family boasts of the way it can change its colors, but we can boast just as much. We don't change our colors in just the same way, it is true, but we wear different costumes at different times, you will admit. No one can say that is not true of us."

"The Australian cat heard the other cats boasting:

"Well, how about me?" asked the Australian cat. "I can boast if I like."

"Ah," the other cats said proudly, "you can boast if you like, but have you anything to boast of?"

"Of course," said the Australian cat. "I had a grandfather who came over on a small ship with a sailor and who then settled in my home town. My grandfather traveled. And I look something like a kangaroo, a famous animal from Australia. My hind legs are long and my front ones are short and my tail is a very long one, a fine one indeed."

"Little Fuzzy Kittens."

"Well, if you're proud of all those things," said the other cats, "you can boast of them. It all depends what you consider worth being proud of, that's all. We are proud of so much bigger and greater things, greater at any rate."

"And we're among the most important cats at this show, in fact we are just about the most important cats of this show."

"But while both these cats were among the most interesting at the show and while their family histories were old and famous and worth being noticed, there were other lovely cats who won many prizes and many blue ribbons."

"There were lovely chinchilla cats, and cats of different colors. All of them sat in glorious splendor on silken cushions."

"The blue cats sat upon blue cushions and the silver cats upon silver cushions and others upon cushions of silk which went well with their fur."

"But one of the cats, Lady Pearly, won many prizes, for the judges all said:

"This is one of the most interesting cats, for she knows how to really smile as well as how to really scowl!"

GIRL OF 13 SUNDAY SCHOOL HEAD, EPISCOPAL CAMPAIGN SURVEY REVEALS

Beatrice Politt at 13 when she became superintendent of the Kearsarge Sunday School

Something of the same spirit which made David Farragut the commander of a prize ship at the age of thirteen, elevated Beatrice Politt to the superintendency of a Sunday School when she was at that tender age. It was the pioneer spirit, which made America the great nation it is, the force which blazes trails in the wilderness and raises up magnificent cities. It impelled this young girl to assume a leadership which was recognized by her companions and now is being widely acclaimed. The story of how Beatrice Politt became superintendent of the Episcopal Sunday School at Kearsarge, in the upper peninsula of Michigan, was brought to light through the survey made of the diocese of Marquette in connection with the Episcopal Church's Nation-Wide Campaign, now in progress.

There was no Sunday School in Kearsarge when Beatrice, at the age of thirteen, determined to organize one. Now, everyone knows that, to be completely happy, a girl of thirteen must put on her best dress and her crispest hair-ribbon on Sunday morning and go to Sunday School.

So Beatrice started a Sunday School. She gathered up twenty-six delighted children of the town and told them about it. They elected her superintendent as a tribute to her organizing ability, although some of them were older than she was. She read the lessons and the prayers, and distributed the papers. That was four years ago. From Beatrice's little Sunday School has grown the flourishing Episcopal mission of St. John's.

THE PRINCE OF WALES BECOMES AN ALBERTA RANCHMAN

House on the Prince of Wales' Ranch

This is a big recognition of the pre-eminence of Alberta as a province adapted for stock raising, for in his tour over Canada on his special Canadian Pacific train he had unusual opportunities to form an opinion as to the best location. His selection was Alberta's sunny foothills.

The Prince's venture will provide a great stimulus for the purebred live stock of Western Canada, as it is reported that he intends to ship over some of the very excellent Thoroughbreds, Shorthorns and Shropshires that he is breeding on his English estate. This will mean some of the best blood of these three excellent breeds will be placed on his Alberta ranch, and by these being available to his neighbors he hopes to raise the standard, not only of these breeds, but also of the many other good breeds in Western Canada.

The Prince is planning to give employment to returned soldiers on his ranch.

The Prince of Wales, when leaving Western Canada, said in a speech that he was merely bidding his friends there "an revoir and not good-by." The Prince sincerely intends to return to Canada, for he has purchased the 600 acre Beddingfield ranch in Alberta, southwest of High River and adjoining the famous Bar-U Ranch, where he was the guest of George Lane, the owner, a noted breeder of Percherons. The Prince is enthused with the possibilities of Alberta for stock raising and will use his new property largely for this purpose.

PONTOTOC COUNTY GOOD ROADS ASSN. TO MEET ON JAN. 6

A meeting of the Pontotoc County Good Roads Association will be held Tuesday, January 6th, at 1 o'clock P. M., sharp, at the Court House at Ada, and all good roads enthusiasts of Pontotoc county, farmers, laboring men, business men and professional men, are earnestly requested to be present, as business of much importance will be transacted at this meeting.

The war is now over and we must get busy and make sure that some of the main roads running through Oklahoma passes through Pontotoc county, and with a united effort of all the citizens of our county we can get one of the proposed roads without cost to us.

Our government is now looking for a first-class postal route, they want such a route from Kansas City across Oklahoma into Texas, the proposed Oil Cities Highway Route. I am informed, is just what the government wants, and we in Pontotoc county must get together and secure the proposed Oil Cities Highway Route. We can do it without cost to us.

Everybody remember the date and come to Ada.—Dr. L. M. Overton, President Pontotoc County Good Roads Association.

CUBS SIGN BEWHISKERED PITCHER; RAISE QUERY, "WHY ARE BEARDS TABOO IN SPORT?"

The recent signing of Brother P. L. Mooney, a member of the "House of David," for a tryout with the Chicago Cub pitching staff next season has caused considerable guffawing among fans and paragraph writers. This for the simple reason that Brother Mooney wears a full beard and long hair, which, according to the tenets of his religious order, he must retain. Why the idea has sprung up that the athletic field is no place for whiskers isn't known. It's a fallacy, though. Baseball players who laid the foundation for the game were bearded. Last summer in Scotland at the Brame gathering, Sandy Macintosh, a sixty-nine-year-old athlete, with gray whiskers, surprised the field by the way in which he hurled a fifty-six pound hammer. The agility and strength of the Indian warriors in athletic meets surprised the soldiers of other nations. The Indians wore long beards and tied their long hair on top of their heads.

RED ACTIVITIES ARE BAD SAYS PALMER

BERTILION AND FINGER PRINT SYSTEMS SHOW THAT THERE ARE ABOUT 60,000 BE- ING WATCHED.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The Department of Justice is confronted with "increasingly dangerous radical activities," Attorney General Palmer said in his annual report submitted today to congress.

Mr. Palmer did not go into details as to "red" activities in general, but said that the work of the total of 365,295 index record cards, 71,000 Bertillon records and 262,222 finger print records now in the department some 60,000 represented data concerning "reds" and their work. He mentioned that the department had increased steadily its contributions of information, adding that this meant better facilities for running down persons whose lives bore marks of crime.

Mr. Palmer said that while other government agencies during the past year were rounding out their labors incident to the war, his department found itself only half way through its scores of investigations and litigated questions. Countless hundreds have been made against the government, he said, and must be fought through the courts. Cases in which the government seeks to recover funds paid out through error or fraud provides another source of supply for litigation. Alleged infringement of patent rights by the government in its manufacture of war materials, as well as similar claims arising from private manufacture of war supplies on the cost-plus arrangement, also puts litigation on the shoulders of the department's staff.

The department policy of resuming prosecution of trusts has re-

SERBIA IS STILL IN BAD STRAITS SAYS THIS MAN

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Allen M. Gale of the Serbian Relief Committee, commenting on a recent dispatch from Belgrade stating that Serbia was on her feet again, having recovered from the immediate effects of the war, said:

"The Serbian Relief Committee of America and all who are giving their lives and strength to the work, know that great as the results accomplished appear in the aggregate, they are, in comparison to the need, pitifully small. Much is made of the fact that this year's harvest gives the new kingdom a surplus in cereals above its needs, that the food situation is under control and that actual starvation no longer menaces the people. But these facts have been long known by the relief agencies and all interested in Serbia, and have been very widely published by them. And it should be equally well known that the harvest includes the crops of Bosnia and Herzegovina, which, as Austrian territory during the war, suffered very little real damage. There will perhaps, be no genuine starvation in Serbia through the winter, though the food supply, neither in quantity nor quality, is suitable for the restoration of health and strength of young children. One slight indication of this is to be seen in the recent shipment by Mr. Hoover's Administration of Relief of four large cargoes of powdered milk for use in central and southeastern Europe, including Serbia.

"In Jugoslavia there are 500,000 fatherless children, of whom 150,000 are absolutely destitute. Among them tuberculosis, eye and skin diseases are rife. Of these children, up to July, less than 2,000 had been provided for, largely because of the tremendous difficulties attending the work in an utterly disorganized community. The government at Belgrade and the great American and English relief organizations are now working in thorough harmony in their efforts to carry these children safely through the winter. They can only succeed if there is no slacking of effort on the part of the American and British peoples."

Social at Christian Church.

Miss Hooper, National Junior Superintendent, did not arrive in Ada yesterday as was expected on account of having missed connection. But those who had gathered to hear her and to have a social went ahead with the social. After the usual prayer meeting service the contents of the boxes the ladies were asked to bring were arranged on a long table and all gathered around to a picnic supper. Every thing to eat that one's appetite could desire was displayed.

The ever present wit of the minister, Rev. C. V. Dunn, kept folks in a state of laughter most of the time, and together with C. S. McAllister's stories the evening passed away all too quickly. Those present report a good time regardless of the disappointment due to the failure of Miss Hooper to arrive.

FRENCH PREMIER VISITS ENGLAND'S PREMIER TODAY

By the Associated Press

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Clemenceau of France arrived here at about 10 o'clock this morning. During his stay in London he will confer with Premier Lloyd George and Foreign Minister Scialoja of Italy.

The two prime ministers began their private conference in Mr. Lloyd George's residence in Downing Street at 11 o'clock. It was generally expected that their discussion would last through today and tomorrow. The British premier abandoned his first visit to the House of Commons in order to place his time at the disposal of Premier Clemenceau.

Hungary to Have a Complete Change Of Government

By the Associated Press

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 11.—Hungary will return to a new form of government soon, according to reports reaching the Associated Press by a Switzerland traveler who has just received word from Butvib.

Nearly 95 per cent of the population would vote for a return to a monarchy but it is uncertain who will become king. The old fashioned royalists favor former Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary, while others think his son Franz Joseph Otto, without a vote, should ascend the throne. Others are calling for a monarchy but there is no predominating current in this direction.

Wood Alcohol Killed Wilder Jury Decides

That Wes Wilder of Ardmore died of wood alcohol poisoning was the decision of a coroner's jury in Judge Brown's court this morning. From evidence submitted at the coroner's hearing it was evident that the young man had been drinking alcohol and died from the effects of the poison. The following is the verdict of the jury:

State of Oklahoma,

Pontotoc County, ss.

Return and Verdict of Coroner's Jury.

An inquisition held at Ada in Pontotoc County, Oklahoma, on the 11th day of December, 1919, before H. J. Brown, a justice of the peace, acting as coroner of said County, on the body of Wes Wilder, there lying dead, by the jurors whose names are hereunto subscribed. The said jurors do upon their oaths, so say that deceased came to his death from poisoning from the effects of denatured or wood alcohol, self administered, as shown by the evidence.

In testimony whereof the said jurors have hereunto set their hands the day and year aforesaid.

J. A. Biles,
L. J. Crowder,
W. N. Nettles,
J. D. Jackson,
R. L. Ferguson,
G. V. West,
Jurors.

This return attested by me to be the true verdict of the coroner's jury as above set forth.

H. J. Brown, J. P.,
Acting as Coroner.

Wilder died at the home of W. P. Morris on the Byrd's Mill road early Monday morning. In company with a young man named Lloyd he had stopped at the Morris home Sunday night to spend the night and died the following morning. His mother lives at Ardmore and the remains were sent there today for burial. It is said that Wilder had been in this county picking cotton.
